

PRETTY MODEL LEAPS FOUR STORIES TO SAVE HONOR; DYING IN HOSPITAL

Wealthy Broker And Friend Held On Attack Charges

To save her honor, Dorothy Smith, 23, a pretty cloak model, said to be the daughter of a wealthy textile manufacturer of Holden, Mass., leaped from the fourth floor of the exclusive apartment of Francis Murphy, 30, of 115 East 89th St., shortly at 3 a. m. today, according to police.

The young woman is dying in Reception Hospital. She is suffering from fractured legs, possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Is Wealthy Broker

Murphy, who says he is a wealthy broker, with offices in Wall Street, and a friend, James J. Fitzpatrick, 24, of 2028 Creston Avenue, The Bronx, whom Miss Smith accuses of making the attack, are held without bail on serious charges following a hearing before a magistrate in Harlem Court.

After the young woman struck a rear courtyard, she managed to grasp a piece of paper and scribbled on it with a gold pencil she wore on a ribbon around her neck. "Attacked—Murphy," police said. Detectives Murtha and Gallagher of the East 104th Street station, assigned to the case, questioned the girl at the hospital.

"A Terrible Attack"

"It was a terrible attack—terrible," she said again and again, Gallagher said.

Because of her condition they were able to get no further information.

From what police could learn, Murphy and Miss Smith had been acquainted for some time. They met last night at the Sophie Tucker playground, an uptown night club. Murtha said he learned they had several drinks.

Kisses Crucifix

According to the story he reconstructed, she and Murphy went home at 3 a. m. There Fitzpatrick called. The alleged attack occurred then, he said, and the girl went into a rear room and leaped, after kissing a crucifix which was on a mantel in the front room.

Neighbors heard her fall and notified the police.

Murtha said he had arrested the men after they had said they did not know what had happened—that they thought the girl had gone home.

"I asked them why they thought she had gone when her hat and coat were in plain view," he told a GRAPHIC reporter. "They became confused then."

Calls Parents Wealthy

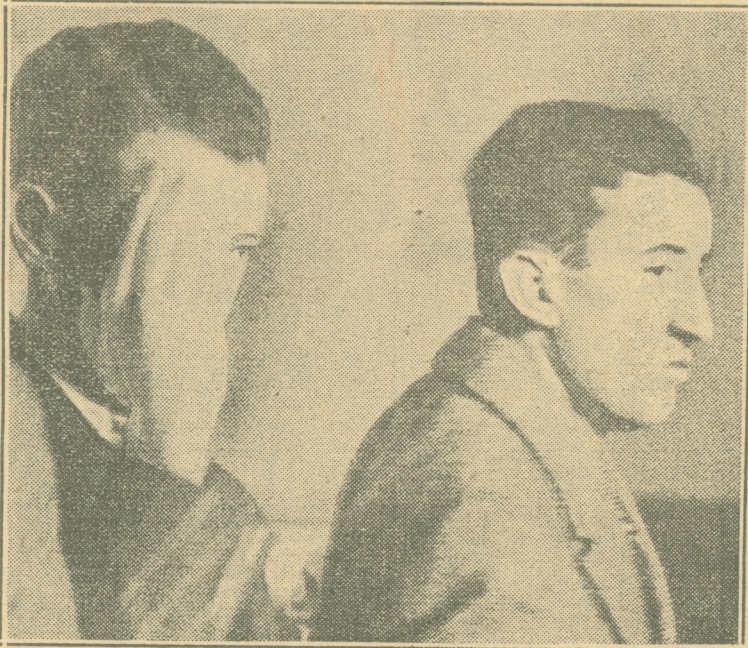

Neither Murphy nor Fitzpatrick would reveal more than their ages and home addresses. Murphy said his parents, very wealthy, were at the mountains and he did not want them to know what had happened.

Mrs. Mary Lewis, Miss Smith's landlady, who has taken temporary custody of Prince, a brindle bulldog she owned, said she did not have to work because of a regular income received from her father.

"She may have worked now and then," Mrs. Lewis said. "She was to have taken a position as a cloak model October 1."

She said the young woman had lived in the neighborhood for about three years and was well known and liked. She is said to have returned from a visit to her parents last Wednesday.

Blamed for Girl's Plunge

9 Knocked Out, Score Hurt, In All-Night Prom Battle

ROCHESTER, Sept. 27 (By U. P.).—Nine University of Rochester students were knocked unconscious and scores of others less seriously injured in the annual prom night battle on the campus early today.

The fight lasted until dawn and ended in a fifty-minute hand-to-hand struggle. Freshmen lost.

Six sophomores were injured.

They were Richard Hamill, Philip Emerson, William Smith, Howard Henderson, Felix Ottaviano and Clark Baker. Freshmen injured were Frank Christman, Charles Valkenburgh and John Frizone.

Smith, one of the injured sophomores, also was hurt in the class rush last year. He spent some time in a hospital.

Thugs Bind 3 Men, Take $500 in Bold Daylight Robbery

Two armed negroes today staged a daylight robbery of a Great Atlantic and Pacific store collector, the manager of a store at 510 Amsterdam Ave., near 85th Street and his assistant, and after binding all, escaped with between $300 and $500 in the collector's automobile.

In leaving the store they knocked down a woman customer, who shouted for police. By the time help arrived the pair had sped away.

The collector, Harry Wallace, parked his car and went inside. As he was greeting James Costello, the manager, and his assistant, Anthony Fahey, the negroes entered. They found the money in Wallace's coat, backed all into a rear room and tied their hands with clothesline. They did not try to empty the cash register.

TOT FOUND IN PARK

A baby boy, two weeks old, was found late last night in Kings Park, at Jamaica Avenue and 158th Street, Jamaica, Queens, by Stanley Gorski of 160-02 Cypress Ave., Flushing, Queens, and Archie Lempert, 115-05 172d St., St. Albans, Queens.

2 DIE IN SPEEDBOAT

STEBENVILLE, O., Sept. 27 (By U. P.).—Two persons were killed and three injured when a speedboat hit a barge in the Ohio River today. The dead are Abraham Weisenthal, wealthy furniture dealer and Mrs. John Stroup.

Youth's Effort at Suicide May Win Sweetie's Hand

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 27.—George Johanson, 21, a bookbinder, who tried death because his engagement to pretty Helen Alevas, 17, of 589 Liberty St., was broken, will live, and his romance may end happily after all—if her father will consent.

The youth collapsed yesterday in front of the West Orange fire station after drinking poison. He had in his possession a note, addressed to the girl, in which he said:—

"This is the end of everything. I can't live without you."

Girl is Sorry

"I am sorry for George and I am praying for his recovery," said Helen today. Mrs. Alevas, her mother, said the same thing.

"If he recovers—and at Orange Memorial Hospital it is said he is out of danger, will you marry him?" Helen was asked.

"Well," was the blushing reply, "He'll have to ask father about that."

When he was able to speak, the youth said that he and Helen quarrelled "now and then."

Miami Drafts All Workers After Riots

MIAMI, FLA., Sept. 21 (By U. P.).—"We need men to restore Miami. This is not a time for laggards. Every able-bodied man must work or go to jail."

"HENRY R. CHASE, Sheriff of Dade County. "LESLIE QUIGG, Chief of Police of Miami."

Placards bearing this drastic order confronted citizens of Miami and Dade county this morning. Sheriff Chase and Chief Quigg said they would enforce it today.

Virtual Conscription

The placards were particularly prominent throughout the residential section of devastated Miami.

The virtual conscription follows closely the forcing to work of all negro labor in clearing away the wreckage of the West Indian hurricane which swept south Florida nine days ago.

The order is expected by the officials to remove the cause of complaint of the negroes, a score of whom caused troopers, police and deputy sheriffs considerable apprehension over race trouble Friday night. Putting white labor to work will soothe the disgruntled negroes, it is believed.

Many Offer Thanks

The far-reaching step toward rehabilitation of the ruined city also followed a day of citywide thanksgiving that the devastation and deaths had not been greater in the storm that slashed the city.

More than 5,000 persons jammed Royal Palm Park yesterday, crowding between the shattered hulks of launches and yachts and palm trees and other varieties of debris, and offered thanks that the toll was not greater.

Prayers Said for Dead

The service savored of the requiem. Many prayers were said for the dead, most of whom were buried without funeral services.

Regular services were held in several churches which have been pronounced safe despite the damage. Mayor Romph had proclaimed the day one of municipal thanksgiving.

The services concluded, Miami began immediately to dig deeper into the debris.

WOMAN FOUND GASSED, DYING IN HER KITCHEN

Mrs. Anna Waterling, 40, of 396 3d Ave., Long Island city, was found in her apartment today unconscious from gas poisoning. She was revived by the emergency crew of the East River Gas Company and an ambulance surgeon from St. John's Hospital, where she is now in a critical condition.

Police discovered that the gas range tube had become disconnected.

Rosenthal Buried; Mistaken for Lane, Son-in-Law Says

The body of Jacob Rosenthal of Woodmere, L. I., who was killed by bandits near Cuernavaca, Mexico, has been buried in Salem Field Cemetery, Cypress Hills, Brooklyn.

Joseph Ruff, Rosenthal's son-in-law, was one of the automobile party of four held up by the bandits who kidnaped Mr. Rosenthal. He gave graphic details of the kidnaping and the events leading up to the death of his father-in-law.

Mr. Ruff expressed the belief that the bandits were under the impression they were kidnaping Mr. Lane, ambassador to Mexico. He said the opinion in the American colony was that the outlaws, either of their own accord or at the instigation of others, wanted to kidnap the secretary.

Baseball Fan Held In Umpire's Death At 'Sand Lot' Game

Thomas Carroll, 25, of 3618 8th Ave., Astoria, Queens, alleged to have caused the death of Patrick McTavey, 38, of 244 Greenpoint Ave., Long Island City, umpire in a "sand lot" baseball game in Long Island City yesterday, today surrendered to the police.

Carroll disappeared after the disturbance and a general alarm was sent out for him.

The game was between the Centuries and the Cubs, and the Centuries were winning by 4 to 1 in the eighth inning, when they took the field. The Cubs got a man on first base and a man on third. The runner on third started for home, "seesawed," and finally dove back to third.

McTavey, the umpire, was near third and called the runner safe. Members of the teams quarreled and, police said, Thomas Carroll, brother of the catcher for the Centuries, ran from the side lines and struck McTavey. The umpire fell, striking his head violently. He died shortly after. Carroll was to be arraigned late today.

New York a Rebel, McAdoo Tells Drys

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (By U. P.).—William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, believes New York and Mary-and "in effect, if not in fact, are in rebellion against the United States." Addressing the national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union here last night, McAdoo declared that the citizens of those two states who fail to support prohibition and want "unrestrained liberty" should go to the African or Amazon jungles.
